

F. W. GAILBRIGHT IS ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

AMERICAN LEGION COMMANDER IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT

WAS ELECTED NATIONAL COMMANDER AT CLEVELAND CONVENTION.

SERVED DURING WORLD WAR AS COLONEL OF "FIGHTING FIRST."

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, June 9—Frederick W. Galbraight, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, was killed almost instantly here early today when he rode an automobile over a fifteen-foot embankment.

Milton J. Foreman, national guard committeeman from Illinois, was seriously injured, and Henry J. Ryan, chairman of the Legion's Americanization committee, was less seriously injured.

Ryan owned the car, and grief over Galbraight's death and Foreman's injuries, threw him into nervous prostration. This together with the injuries he received, may make his condition serious, it was said at the city hospital where he and Foreman are being treated.

The men were riding from the country club to the union station where Galbraight and Foreman were to entrain for Chicago at 12:30. Ryan told the police he was driving at a speed of twenty-two miles an hour. He was unfamiliar with the streets and failed to make a sudden turn at Sixteenth street and Indiana avenue. The automobile ran over the curb and toppled over the embankment landing on its side at the bottom. All three men were thrown clear of the car, Galbraight's head striking a rock. It was thought fracture of his skull caused his death.

A number of negroes going home from work passed by shortly after the accident and they said Ryan completely lost control of himself when he learned of Galbraight's death. It was necessary for some of the party to hold him, they said. Ryan said he was slowing down when the car overturned, but he said he thought the steering wheel failed to function. He said he had some trouble with it a few days ago but had been working all right since then.

Galbraight was elected commander of the legion at the Cleveland convention last September. During the world war he served as colonel and won the name of "the fighting colonel of the Fighting First." He was assigned to command the 147th infantry in January, 1917, and remained in command of it throughout the war. He personally led his regiment through the German lines in 1918. Colonel Galbraight was born in Watertown, Massachusetts, May 6, 1874, and at the time of his death he was president of the Western Paper Goods Company of Cincinnati.

Each of the three men were effective in promoting the American spirit throughout the country by arranging many Americanization meetings. The first was in Madison Square Gardens, N. Y., to offset German propaganda started a previous meeting by Edmund Von Mach. The meeting, by the vigorous assertions of Colonel Galbraight, put down the propaganda which was designed to curb French sentiment in the United States.

North Point, Mich., June 9—Mrs. Fred W. Galbraight, Jr., widow of the commander of the American Legion, who was killed at Indianapolis, left today for that city with her two children.

Fleet Successor Next Week.

The successor to Galbraight will be chosen by the executive committee of the Legion early next week at a meeting here. There are five vice commanders and any one of them is eligible to the place.

They are: John G. Emery of Grand Rapids; Thomas Goldingay of Newark, N. J.; Claudius G. Pendill of Racine, Wisconsin; J. G. Scrugham of Carson City, Nevada; and E. J. Winslett of Birmingham, Alabama.

President Sends Condolences.

Washington, June 9—President Harding today sent a message of sympathy to Mrs. F. W. Galbraight, Jr., widow of the commander of the American Legion, who was killed in an automobile accident.

The message was as follows: "Please know that you have my sympathy in the great sudden sorrow which has come to you. It is my fortune to know Colonel Galbraight, not alone as the national commander of the American Legion, but as a fellow citizen of Ohio, and I have highly valued his commanding personality, his tireless zeal and intense devotion to his country and his companions in arms. The Legion and the nation share with you the great loss which has come so suddenly."

EXCURSION BOAT ON MISSISSIPPI MAROONED ALL NIGHT ON SANDBAR

(United Press)

Lake City, Minn., June 9—Between eight hundred and one thousand excursionists on a river boat were marooned on a sand bar in the Mississippi off Elma, Wis., early today. The steamer left Lake City at 8:00 p. m. and picked up several passengers at Wabasha for a moonlight excursion. On the return trip the boat got stuck at Elma, and every effort to pull it loose failed.

Officers of the steamer were still studying early today how to get the boat clear. There is a possibility that the passengers would be unloaded to smaller boats so as to float the steamer clear.

Passengers Taken Off.

Wabasha, Minn., June 9—Nearly eight hundred excursionists stuck on a sand bar in the Mississippi off Elma, Wis., for ten hours, were brought here today on another boat. They were passengers on the steamer Majestic.

The W. J. Mayo steamer Minnesota was taking off passengers and brought in the first load at 10 a. m.

The Majestic started on trip on the upper Mississippi last night, taking excursionists from Lake City, Wabasha, and other cities near by. About 11 p. m. the steamer stuck fast on the sand bar near Elma and all efforts to dislodge her failed.

Passengers bought up the ship's store of candy and food long before daylight and the water supply was running low. As soon as the passengers are unloaded it is believed the steamer will float herself free. She is a four decker with a capacity of three thousand passengers. She was less than one-third loaded last night.

Stranded Steamer Floated.

Wabasha, Minn., June 9—The steamer Majestic which struck on a gravel dam five miles below here last night, was floated early this afternoon and proceeding toward Red Wing where fifteen hundred men, women and children had been waiting all day for an excursion ride.

Her passengers had been taken off by the Mayo brothers steamer Minnesota and the steamer Washington towed the Majestic off the bar. The Majestic was expected to reach Red Wing about 5 p. m.

(United Press)

Toledo, Ohio, June 9—Machine guns by guardsmen and police who served in France are being used against Tom Kelly, 47, barred in a rooming house near the business section of the city here today.

Kelly has killed two patrolmen and for several hours has held a small army of police and detectives at bay. Police have penetrated the second floor of the place and have lighted sulphur candles in an attempt to smoke Kelly out. He is in the attic.

Kelly Is Killed.

Toledo, Ohio, June 9—Machine guns, rifles, pistols and sulphur candles were used by police here today in getting John Kelly, a waiter, who had killed Patrolman Harry Dowell and Harvey Moseburg and who barred himself in the attic of a house in which he lived and held off almost the entire police department for hours.

After the machine guns had been brought into play the house at 611 Walnut street, near the business section, was rushed and Kelly with both his guns loaded, was found lying across a cot bed. He had been hit twice.

Kelly flourished a revolver and announced that no police would take him alive, when Mrs. Nellie Key tried to collect seventy-five dollars which the man owed her for room rent.

JAP CROWN PRINCE HOPES U. S. AND JAPAN WILL WORK TOGETHER

WM. FLEISHER,

Copyright, 1921, by the United Press. Paris, June 9—"I hope America and Japan may always be found working hand in hand not only for their mutual benefit but to assure lasting peace throughout the world," Crown Prince Hirohito of Japan, declared today in an interview with the United Press.

The prince upset all traditions when he personally received the correspondent at his temporary residence here.

"I have long cherished a desire to visit the United States," the prince said. "I hope it will be only a deferred pleasure."

Being interviewed was a new experience for Hirohito. He was somewhat reserved at first but lost the stiffness after the first question and smiled as he delivered his answers through an interpreter.

WORTH $3,000,000, CAN'T AFFORD TO PAY $10,000 ALIMONY

CARL V. LITTLE,

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Chicago, June 9—Mr. Peggy, the third, is only worth $2,995,188.66 and cannot afford to pay his wife the $10,000 a month alimony she demands. J. Stanley Joyce, the third millionaire husband of Peggy Joyce, show girl, told this to Judge Sabath when he took the stand in the case involving his domestic smash today.

Joyce came out of hiding of several weeks to appear in court. His seclusion followed Peggy's counter attack on him after he had petitioned for a divorce. Weymouth Kirkland, Peggy's attorney, questioned Joyce as to his wealth and branded him as a "don't recall witness," when he did not remember certain of his assets.

Peggy's present husband was haled into court on motion of Kirkland, amid a stormy battle between opposing counsels.

Joyce is expected to tell the court today that Peggy, a country barber's daughter from Farmerville, Virginia, has no right to expect ten thousand dollars alimony. "It would take much less for her to live in the style she was accustomed to before she met him," Joyce believes.

In answer to this, Peggy, who will probably be called into court, is expected to put on record—"you made me what I am today," and will declare that Joyce made her extravagant and as it therefore takes a lot of money for her to get by these days.

SIMMS WILL NOT REPUDIATE SPEECH

(United Press)

London, June 9—"I have no reason to believe I was misquoted in a cable account of my speech before the English speaking nation," Admiral Simms told the United Press today. Simms said he had not received the cable sent by Secretary Denby asking if the anti-Sinn Fein quotations were correct.

"I presume some factions in the United States are trying to stir up trouble," Simms said in commenting on the secretary's action in cabling him. He did not appear worried over the possibility of being reprimanded. "I said nothing that I have not said dozens of times in the United States and in my book," he declared.

Must Repudiate Press Report.

Washington, June 9—The future of Admiral Wm. S. Simms in the American navy was believed to hinge today on the reply he makes to Secretary Denby's inquiry on Simms' anti-Sinn Fein speech in London.

If Simms can repudiate press reports of his speech it is assumed the matter will be dropped, but if he admits they are accurate, Denby, it was said, is prepared to take summary action. President Harding is being urged to act also.

Senate Will Investigate.

Washington, June 9—Immediate investigation by the senate naval committee of the speech of Wm. S. Simms in London, was ordered by the senate today.

Without objection, the senate adopted a resolution by Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, democrat, directing the committee to make a thorough investigation and to report with recommendations as to what the senate should do about it.

The resolution quoted the published portion of the Simms speech in which he was said to have referred to some persons in the United States as "Sinn Feiners," "zebras" and "asses."

In his resolution Gallivan, a former Harvard football star, attacked Dempsey as a "big bum who dodged the draft," and says Carpenter was slow in joining the colors in his country.

NEW REDUCTIONS IN COMMODITY PRICES GOING ON

DECLARES JAS. MCCOY, ACTUARY OF TREASURY DEPARTMENT TODAY.

By RALPH COUCH

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Washington, June 9—A new series of reduction in prices of all commodities is beginning in nearly every section of the country, James McCoy, actuary of the treasury department, declared today.

The nation-wide price cutting wave which began just about a year ago, had slowed down during the last few months. Now price cutting is to be resumed on a new and faster scale. It was indicated by factors which McCoy considers important.

One of these factors is an unusually big drop in the per capita circulation of money. In the month ended June 1, the per capita circulation fell off $88 to $55.43 a person, according to an announcement by the treasury.

"This shows conclusively that prices are falling," said McCoy. "It means that money is getting harder to obtain because there is less of it to be had. When you have to work harder to get money it is worth more and will buy more."

Investigate Government Veteran Relief Work

Washington, June 9—The senate today passed a resolution by Senator Walsh of Mississippi, ordering an immediate investigation of governmental agencies engaged in veteran relief work.

"Short Cuts" Seldom Safe.

When you get on the wrong path the only safe thing is to work your way back to the main road. Wisdom warns against the short cuts. They might be all right, but frequently they are not. It may seem like a great waste of time to retrace your steps, but often that is the only way you can make sure of getting back where you started from. You can't be too careful in the paths of life. A thousand bypaths lead off from life's great purposes and any one of them leads to loss of power and efficiency. Some may lead to sudden fame and wealth, but such advantages are few. It's safer far to keep on the beaten path and seek to excel in it. Only the strong natures can resist the perils of the unbeaten ways, or by intuition determine the ways that lead to the proper goal. Your task is to make sure of what meets your purposes and then keep to the path until you attain the goal.—Exchange.

Chamber of Commerce Meeting

The meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last night was a most important one. Reports of parks and play grounds committees showed that much work had been done at White park, looking toward the greater comfort of our tourist guests. Tables and seats, stoves etc. have been built and water and lights are to be installed in a few days. A motion was made that the $25 offered for the best name and because of the fact that no name was chosen, was voted by the park and play ground committees for improving the play grounds and camp sites. The parcel of land selected for the baseball diamond has been put in good shape and will soon be open for games.

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS

In district court the case of Western Electric Company vs the Northern Home Furnishing Co. went to the jury shortly before noon. The trial of this case has lasted from Tuesday morning and involved a contract for the sale of Hughes electric ranges as made by the Western Electric Company with the defendant. A lot of ranges were received and not entirely paid for. The company sued for the balance and the Northern Home Furnishing Co. filed a counter claim alleging they had not been protected in the sale of the ranges in Brainerd territory, but that the city of Brainerd took on the sale of the same and sold them at cost, thus stopping further sales by the defendant. Other expenses alleged were advertising, demonstrating, etc., carried out by the Northern Home Furnishing Co., all of which was lost when the ranges could not be sold.

Frank Yello, charged with murder in the second degree, pleaded not guilty. The court appointed C. A. Ryan as his attorney. The trial has been set for June 14 at 9 a. m.

Clarence Wheeler will plead later to the charge of simple assault. M. E. and C. A. Ryan are his attorneys.

John Benjamin, charged in two separate indictments with grand larceny in the second degree, had no attorney and the court appointed Walter F. Wieland. He is expected to plead late this afternoon.

Notice to Ex-Service Men

The funeral for John Mahlum returned overseas soldier will be held Sunday afternoon, June 12th. All ex-service men are respectfully and urgently requested to attend. Flag bearer, band, firing squad and others in uniform will assemble at Y. M. C. A at 1:30 sharp.

Firefly Illumination.

The firefly is a well-known beetle of the elateridae family, which is able to throw out a strong and apparently phosphorescent light in the dark. The illumination is intermittent, and appears to be under the control of the insect's nervous system. Both the male and the female fireflies emit light, as well as their larvae, the eggs being luminous even while still in the body.

Poetic Inspiration.

At a reception in London a lady questioned Robert Browning, the poet, as to the meaning of a passage in one of his poems that had long been in dispute. "Upon my word," he said, "I don't know what it means. I advise you to ask the Browning society—they'll tell you all about it." Cardinal Newman, in his old age, frankly admitted that he could not remember what he meant when he penned those famous lines in his "Lead, Kindly Light:" "And with the morn, those angel faces smile, which I have loved long since and lost awhile."

The Age of Glass.

Nothing seems to be known of the origin of its manufacture, but the ancient Egyptians were expert at the art, and are known to have practised it as early as 2000 B. C. Britain did not become distinguished for glass-making until the beginning of the sixteenth century.

Carried by Gulf Stream.

Fishermen on the coast of Norway are able to pick up for fuel on the seashore wood that was grown along the Amazon and Orinoco rivers and from the palms of Hayti, the trees being carried to the distant shores by the Gulf stream, the current of which is more speedy than the Amazon and 1,000 times greater.

PRESS COMMENT ON PHILIPPINES

The Philippines!
(Shenandoah (In.) Post.)
Our idea of the Philippine question is to get out as quickly as possible and stay out. What do you say?

Our Little Brown Cousins
(Argus, Rock Island, Ill.)
There is no mistaking that Filipinos want their independence. And it is just possible, as they insist, that they in the islands, better than we Americans over here, are the best judges of whether they are fitted for independence. The United States wants no outburst in the Philippines as England faces in Ireland. The easiest way to head off a rebellion is to give the islands their independence before they have cause to rebel.

Shall We Let Philippines Go?
(Cedar Rapids (In.) Republican.)
The United States cannot continue to hold the Philippines unless this nation wants to give the lie to its own professions in the matter. The United States must keep faith with the world. The American people do not want the Philippine Islands to become their Irish question.

Filipinos Are Making Headway
(Mt. Vernon (O.) Republican-News.)
The Filipinos are making an intensive and intelligent campaign for independence. They are urging their claims with shrewdness and vigor. They declare that they have proven beyond question that they are capable of self-government, and they believe that with independence the Filipinos will so conduct himself as to gain the respect of the world.

Is Space Endless?
Einstein's theory that space may not be of infinite extent seems to have obtained indorsement by many eminent physicists.
Nevertheless it would not appear that, if this idea be accepted, the cosmos is to be regarded as alarmingly shrunk. For Einstein's own opinion is that a ray of light traveling 180,000 miles a second would require a billion years to make a complete circuit of its outer limits.

Monks Used Charcoal.
Use of charcoal in Italy has always been very heavy because of its almost universal use for cooking and heating. At Vallombrosa a large quantity had always been made, even in the time of the monks during the Middle Ages. Prior to the war this forest alone produced annually about 220,000 pounds of charcoal.—American Forestry Magazine.

HARDING'S OWLS
ARE IDENTIFIED

PRESIDENT DESCRIBES THEM TO
CORRESPONDENT WHO FINDS
THEY ARE SCREECH OWLS.

SMALL AND HAVE EAR TUFTS

Fish Crow, a Notorious Nest Robber, Also Is Among the Many Kinds of Birds Residing in the White House Grounds.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—President Harding, without knowing it, succeeded in identifying the species of owls which just now are making the White House grounds their daily resting place and their nightly hunting ground.

These White House owls have attracted a good deal of attention. They are not uncommon owls, and they have shown an uncommon wisdom only in that they have picked a place for their residence where they are certain to be protected. The interest in them largely, of course, is due to the fact that they are White House owls, and that President Harding has constituted himself their guardian.

Now, I am interested in owls, and, as a matter of fact, I have been interested in owls of the White House domain for a good many years, for these birds of Minerva prior to this time have found the shadow of the executive mansion to be a protected hunting field for mice.

When I first heard of these most recent White House owls I made up my mind I would find out what species they were. All kinds of stories had been told about them. They were voracious, great horned owls, barn owls, barred owls, long-eared owls, and one or two other kinds of owls in turn. I was given permission to go into the White House grounds to see for myself. It was a lowering, dull day, and I hoped that because of the semi-darkness the owls would be awing. They were not, and I could not find them.

Mr. Harding Describes Them.
The President met the newspaper correspondents for the usual Tuesday conference. He talked to them about the cabinet meeting, about disarmament, about big business, and about a lot of other things of high moment. I was timorous about bringing in such a seemingly unimportant thing as an owl, but I finally plucked up my ornithological courage and said: "Mr. President, you have shown an interest in some owls of your dooryard. I understand that you have seen them several times, and if you can answer two questions, I will tell you what species of owl you have for a neighbor."

"Go ahead," said the President.
"How big are they?" I asked.
He held his hands about nine inches apart and said, "So big."
I asked, "Did they have ear tufts?"
"Yes," he said.
"Your neighbors are screech owls. There is only one other species of that size that occurs here, and it lacks the ear tufts."

Then President Harding told me that he was disturbed because of a misunderstanding which there seemed to be concerning some remarks which he had made to the school children who came to the White House to see the owls, and whom he led to their tree retreat. He said, "The papers made it appear that when I asked the children if they knew about birds that ate other birds I meant the owls. I did not mean the owls at all, for I know these small owls are beneficial. I fear the people might think I was directing the children's attention to the seeming necessity of the destruction of birds of this kind. The destructive bird I had in mind was the crow which comes into the White House grounds and kills fledgling birds and robs song birds' nests."

Fish Crow There, Also.
It is possible that President Harding does not know it, but the crow which comes to the White House grounds, and which is a permanent resident of the city of Washington, is not the common crow of America, the "corn thief," but the fish crow, scientifically known as Crocyso ossifragus.

This fish crow nests in the White House grounds and I have discovered a nest this year in a tree on the much traveled Sixteenth street, which leads directly north from the main entrance to the White House. It is a notorious nest robber, and when Theodore Roosevelt was President of the United States he had his troubles trying to keep the fish crow from destroying the nests of all the song birds which nested in the trees of the White House lawns.

When Roosevelt was in the White House he asked me one day to come up there to look at a couple of owls which he had discovered in the grounds. He had identified them as saw-whet owls. I coincided in the identification to his satisfaction. The saw-whet is a small owl, a little smaller than the screech owl, but it lacks ear tufts.

The White House grounds are full of birds. There are so many nesting pairs in the trees of the great lawn which lies on the river side of the White House that even the fish crows cannot search out and destroy all of the homesteads. The purple grackles, otherwise known as crow blackbirds, are the most abundant of the summer residents.

TONIGHT'S VAUDEVILLE

New Park Theatre Presents a Varied and Laughable Bill of Vaudeville and Pictures

The New Park theatre is to present an unusually good vaudeville bill of four acts tonight, together with a five reel Mack Sennett burlesque comedy on married life, entitled "Pollyanna" which is being shown for the last time tonight at the Lyceum. Every man, woman and child should see this one picture.

Value of Sawdust.
Sawdust as a waste product is a thing of the past, for it now serves many purposes and has an ever-increasing commercial value, says the American Forestry Magazine. Mixed with clay, it makes good tiles and bricks, and combined with concrete a good flooring material is obtained.

The headliner in the vaudeville bill, is Mysterious Reno & Co., in a routine of mystery, in which they pick live pigeons out of the air, eat needles and thread, and producing the threaded needles apparently after they have been fully masticated and swallowed. Lon Toode, a more than usually good ventriloquist is another entertainer of merit who has been a decided hit wherever he has shown. A noteworthy part of the bill, is the Bostonian trio, three Italian song birds, in native costume, who sing Venetian street songs, popular airs and grand opera. Glen & Walsh, a young man and woman of unusual versatility give a patter of funny sayings, interspersed with singing and dancing—a mirthful act. The advance notices promise a vaudeville bill of unusual merit.

The big Sennett five reel comedy is just an absurdity, but it has the merit of producing any number of laughs, which all in all, makes the entire bill measure up for an evening of laughter and music.

POLLYANNA HAS A WONDERFUL HUMAN APPEAL

"Gladsome" Influence of Mary Pickford's Production Unusual at Lyceum

The first night of "Pollyanna" at the Lyceum theatre was one of the most unusual in its history. It was, however, typical of the first night of a Mary Pickford production, but it was unusual by reason of the fact that the production itself was so far superior to anything that has ever before been accomplished on the screen.

And how the people glowed, and thrilled and paid the honest tribute of laughter and tears. One of the most case hardened of blasé first nighters, a man well known in our community, versed in a profession that

CALL MEETING OF ALL GAS USERS

Special Council Committee Asks All Interested in This Public Utility

TO MEET AT THE COURT HOUSE

Friday Evening at 8 O'Clock to Discuss Rates, Service, Etc.

The special committee of the council to which was delegated preliminary steps in solving Brainerd's gas problem had its first meeting Wednesday evening at the city hall. The matter was thoroughly gone into with Fred W. Freese, Fort Wayne, Indiana gas expert.

Mayor F. E. Little presided. Other members of the committee are councilman from each ward, being Alderman Witham of the first ward, Alderman Michael of the second ward, Alderman Bukowski of the third ward, Alderman Andrew Anderson of the fourth ward, Alderman Cordes of the fifth ward.

The special committee has called a general mass meeting of all people interested in using gas to confer with them and Mr. Freese at the district court rooms of the court house, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The subject of rates, service, etc. will be thoroughly gone into. In the meantime the special committee is compiling data on the subject so as to give it a clearer conception of the problem and its solution, the latter to be one satisfactory to gas users and gas manufacturers.

Mr. Freese is desirous of a sliding scale of rates which will be determined by cost of materials and labor in making gas, ascending as production costs increase, descending as they decrease and starting from an established conceded base.

He has an option on the local plant and has made his own invention. If given a satisfactory franchise it will be a short matter for him to get the necessary new gas holder and new gas compressor, and then go over his mains, eliminating expensive leakage.

He promises to have the plant in operation within about six weeks from the time he is given a franchise. His specialty is putting plants on their feet and making them deliver gas satisfactorily to people and company. Fresh from Sheridan, Wyoming, he took a rundown plant and in two years made it a successful producer of benefit to gas users and gas producers.

The gas industry was hard hit by the war but can be brought back to "normalcy" by expert engineering work, good business sense and a spirit of cooperation between gas using public and the gas producers.

Proposed Costs

Prices of gas to consumer for 1000 cu. ft. per month:

First 3000 cu. ft. per 1000 cu. ft.	$2.80

Next 3000 cu. ft. per 1000 cu. ft.	2.20
All over 12000 cu. ft. per 1000 cu. ft.	2.00

These prices are based on raw materials as follows:

Gas oil, per gal at	.04
Coal, per ton at	8.00

Should these prices change, then price of gas shall change to consumers as follows:

SCIENTIST CHURCH TO BE BUILT SOON

Beautiful Structure to be Erected at Church Site on Corner of Broadway and Kingwood

H. E. DINGMAN IS ARCHITECT

Church Will Measure 44 by 48 and Size of Lot is 50 by 140 Feet—Impressive Design

The Christian Science congregation of Brainerd has asked for bids to construct their church. The site, secured some time ago, is on the southeast corner of Broadway and Kingwood and measures 50 by 140 feet.

The church structure will measure according to the plans drawn by H. E. Dingman of Little Falls, 44 by 48 feet and will be 23 feet high. Using auditorium, reading room, etc. the total seating capacity will be 250. The church is so designed that an extra story or other additions may be added without destroying the symmetry of the structure.

The auditorium will measure 24 by 37 feet with a seating capacity of 140. The visiting room will measure 14 by 44 feet. The gallery reading room over the visiting room will measure 14 by 44 feet. Doric columns of beautiful design run between visiting room and auditorium.

The north elevation facing Kingwood street reveals a columned entrance flanked by two large arched glass windows. Two columns are based on the main floor and five on the second floor.

The walls will be cased with metal lath on which will be applied "Kellastone", a patented imperishable stucco. The grounds will be terraced at the front entrance and flower beds will add to the beauty of the grounds.

Bids asked for a construction and completion of Christian Science church in the City of Brainerd.

Tenders to be received on or before Wednesday, 2:00 P. M., June 23.

The remains of Sergt.-Major John M. Mahlum son of Mr. and Mrs. Mons Mahlum left Hoboken, N. J. for Brainerd on Wednesday morning. It is expected to reach Brainerd either Friday noon or Friday night.

Sergt.-Major Mahlum died December 22, 1918 while in service overseas. The funeral will be held from the residence 501 North Broadway at 2 p. m. The services will be in charge of former service men under Capt. A. A. Gieriet. Rev. S. M. Kelly will officiate.

John M. Mahlum was born in Brainerd September 24, 1891. He attended Brainerd public schools and graduated from the Brainerd high school in 1912. He spent the following year on the Cuyuna range where he worked for the Mahlum Lumber Co. He then entered Georgetown University in Washington, D. C. He graduated from the law department of this school in June 1916. He then returned to Brainerd and associated himself with his father's business, the Mahlum Lumber Co. He served as secretary of this company until early in 1917 when he enlisted in the United States army.

His career in the army began at Fort Snelling. He served there before being sent to Camp Kearney, California. Early in 1918 he was sent overseas with replacement troops to St. Aignan. From St. Aignan he was detailed to 1st Army Headquarters which was then in the process of formation at Ligny, France. He was made a Sergt. Major in G-1 of First Army headquarters then in charge of Lieut. General Ligger. The headquarters then moved to Souilly, France where they directed the American troops in the Argonne offensive.

After the armistice the headquarters moved back near Chaumont in a little village called Bar-sur-Aube. It was in this little village that he died on December 22, 1918 of bronchial pneumonia being sick only six days. He was buried in the American section of the Bar-sur-Aube cemetery on December 24, 1918. A brother Milton Mahlum attended the funeral at that time. Just previous to John's death the two brothers John and Milton had visited Southern France and Paris while on two weeks leave of absence.

John Mahlum during his life in Brainerd was always a leader in civic movements. He was a splendid speaker winning honors both in high school and at college for his oratorical ability. He was an active and enthusiastic athlete. He was a player and manager of the Brainerd baseball club for several years. In football he was a member of the Georgetown University team and elected captain his last year. He was a patriotic, upright and popular young man. It was a sad blow to his family and his many friends to hear

Greece and the Greeks

Athens and the Acropolis.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Greece, in carrying on in Asia Minor, against the Turkish Nationalists, what may be called the only major war now in progress, attracts attention anew to the prolonged presence of the Greeks on the world stage.

There are few parallels to the striking racial phenomenon of Hellenic continuity throughout the vicissitudes of 2,600 years. Modern research has penetrated the dark byways of medieval Greek history, and we now know that the Greeks, whatever their temporary fate, have preserved unbroken the thread of their national existence.

The firmest bond which unites the Greek of today with his illustrious forebears of the golden age is the Greek language, the essential elements of which remain as they were in the days when the tongue served as the medium of the noblest poetry and the sublimest philosophy which the race has yet produced. This tongue traces its unbroken lineage back through medieval and New Testament Greek to the classic speech of Plato and of his contemporaries.

And yet, with all this continuity of language, there exists now in Greece a linguistic condition of affairs around which centers a controversy at once comic or tragic; for there are in Greece two languages, or, rather, the one language in two forms—one written by the newspapers, spoken by the educated classes, and used in parliamentary debates and in public documents, including the Scriptures, the circulation of which is regulated by law; and the other a vernacular used by the masses of the people, containing many words of foreign origin, especially Turkish and Italian, arising from those periods of foreign occupation, with a much simplified grammar rarely reduced to writing, except for private communications. The former is the cultured tongue; the latter the popular idiom; and between the two there rages a merciless warfare, in which fanatical students of the university have lost their lives, ministers their portfolios, and a Metropolitan of Athens his miter.

Greece of Today Almost New.

Greece of today looks back only three generations, if one places its origin in the war for independence, which was concluded by the protocol of London in 1830; and, witnessing the progress which in that brief span has been made in a land of such sparse resources, one cannot see how praise can be withheld from a people who have accomplished so much.

When the city of Athens passed from Turkish control and was designated as the capital of the new free kingdom of Greece, it was a mere handful of wretched huts clustered about the Acropolis. Today it is a thoroughly modern city, with splendid streets, magnificent public buildings, handsome residences, attractive parks, and most of the modern improvements of which western cities boast. The building of this city alone in a land of such scanty resources is fairly comparable to the development of our own rich West, and as meritorious when all the circumstances are considered. Indeed, had the Greek of today nothing to his credit save the building of the attractive capital of his nation, that alone would be sufficient to rank him among the constructive agencies of the modern world.

In this city of old memories and new hopes, Greek life centers now as in its classic days, and here ancient and modern Greece are inextricably mingled in a curious medley of modernity and antiquity, which colors the most ordinary of every-day affairs. On every hand arise the shattered monuments of its splendid past, and even the tiniest fragments which serve to link the life of the present with the days that are gone are most carefully preserved.

Guards Its Antiquities.

The Greek government is keenly alive to its responsibility for the safeguarding of its antiquities, and the department of archaeology, under the charge of the ministry of education and religion, is painstakingly organized and prudently administered. The museums at Athens are handsomely housed, conveniently arranged, accurately catalogued, and open to inspection and study without fee, this latter being a point of great pride with Athenians. In addition there are now, at various points in the kingdom where research is going on, smaller museums devoted to the preservation of the treasures of the locality.

Crowning the city of Athens stands the sheer and mighty rock of the Acropolis, dominated by the Parthenon, matchless even in its ruins, which projects the changeless purity of its lines against the background of the changing centuries, which have made of it in turn the shrine of the vesal, the church of the Christian, the mosque of the Moslem, and now and ever the ideal of all lovers of the beautiful.

Near at hand cluster the chief remnants of the glory that was Greece; on the one side the tiny gem of the Temple of the Wingless Victory, so chaste and delicate in its proportions and outline, and on the other the Erechtheum, with its unique porch of the Caryatides.

Hard by the stairs of the imposing Propylaea rises the sturdy rock of the Hill of Mars, whence St. Paul declared the unknown God and incidentally took the Athenian measure for all intervening time. At a little distance stands the rough-hewn Bema, where Demosthenes and Ctesiphon strove in matchless phrase, while just below rise the ivory-tinted columns of the Temple of Theseus, best preserved of all the classic remains.

Against such a background it is easy to project the ties of sentiment which bind the life of the Greek of today to that of the classic worthies from whom he claims direct descent. With only a slight shock one will learn that the man who gives him his morning coffee bears the tremendous name of Themistocles. And yet it is difficult to visualize the modern Athenian with those who once walked his streets.

It is only in the islands or deep in the country, where the Albanian flood which swept across the Attic plain has never reached, that one finds the facial lineaments and the bodily grace which the ancient sculptor has taught the modern world as being common to all Greeks of classic time.

Its Agriculture Backward.

Greece is essentially a land of agriculture, pre-eminently intended to be such; but, owing to the tremendous drain by emigration from the rural districts, the progress of agriculture has been painfully deficient. In many places the land is tilled only by women and girls. Many of the men have gone off to America.

Many find the Athenian climate agreeable. Cold winds there are, to be sure, in winter, blowing down from the snow-capped hills above the town or blowing up from the sea at Phaleron; but there are no frosts; the roses bloom during every month of the year; oranges ripen in the open air, one may pick his breakfast fruit from the trees outside his window. The summer heat is easily endurable, the absence of rain removing the humidity which makes American mid-summer so intolerable. One cannot truthfully say that midsummer nights in Athens are really cool, but there is a sensible difference from the heat of the day and a freshness which always makes sleep possible.

At the beginning of the hot season, there is usually an exodus of the court, the diplomats and the wealthy from Athens. To take their places there flock to Athens and to the seaside hotels at Phaleron and to villas and resorts at Kephissia-in-the-hills numbers of rich Greeks from Asia Minor and from Egypt; and the whole city reverses the order of its winter life, turning night into day and spending most of the hours between sunset and sunrise out of doors. Everywhere about the town, on the roofs of clubs or hotels, in the gardens or on the terraces of restaurants, beneath the pepper trees of the parks, and even in the streets, tables are spread, and probably as many as 100,000 people dine in the open air each night of an Athenian summer.

Throughout Greece—and indeed throughout the entire Balkan region—English is much heard, because of the great numbers of Greeks who have returned home from America; and few travelers in the Peloponnese will fail to recall at almost every railroad station the eager face thrust in at the carriage window and quivering with the demand, "You fellows from America?"

SWEETEST NAME

By MARY WINIFRED FORD.

(Copyright, 1931, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Good morning, Mrs. Abbot," called the postman cheerily, as he placed a dainty pink and white envelope in the wrinkled old hands.

Before he had time to be out of sight she called to him excitedly to come back, and she waved the pink and white envelope as though this alone would tell him to hurry—how important was the letter he handed her this morning.

"Oh! Mr. Jackson, read it—Oh, my! Oh, my!" was all she could say, but Mr. Jackson knew her old heart was glad over something and the thought that he was the one to deliver any good news to this "dear old lady" thrilled him through and through.

"A precious little baby girl has come to gladden our hearts," was what he read.

"Just think, Mrs. Abbot, at last your wish has come true—you are really and truly a grandma to someone now," and as he saw her brush a tear away, he left hurriedly, for in his own eyes there had gathered a mist.

Mrs. Abbot had buried her children years ago and her sorrow had made her old, and hard work her hands coarse and wrinkled; but in her eyes shone the soul of a wonderful woman and mother. Every morning at 6 found her working around a little restaurant near her home, and at 6 o'clock at night she could be seen leaving the restaurant, tired, but a smile was there playing around the sweet mouth. She adopted the baby girl of her girlhood friend and playmate, Mae Adams, who died shortly after her husband's death 20 years previous.

The child was named Mae after her mother, but she had known only one mother, Mrs. Abbot, who toiled hard to bring the child up as she felt Mae Adams would have done had she lived. When in high school the girl protested and declared she must leave and help her "Mummy" out, but that dear old soul also protested, saying that her own mother would have desired nothing more than to see her little girl properly educated.

With a pension she was receiving, since her husband's death, and the money received for her daily work in the restaurant, she was able to buy the things a young girl's heart would desire, so that Mae was rich with the things she wanted—pretty frocked dresses, shoes, etc., and a wonderful motherly love from Mrs. Abbot.

Then along came her handsome young knight, and they were married, and "Mummy Abbot" was alone, as Jack Edmond insisted that his wife should leave her home in the country and go to New York with him to live. They pleaded with Mrs. Abbot to accompany them, but she refused to part with the old home and the things she loved—the trees, the birds that had become a part of her wonderful life. Now came the wonderful news! And "Mummy" must come at once to see the little girl. But, alas! this poor little mother was now alone in years and the trip would prove too much for her, so she sent a letter of congratulation and love to them both, instead.

"Jack, here is a letter from Mummy, and she feels the trip would be too much for her. Oh, I am so disappointed! I just wanted to see Mummy cuddle baby to her and to see the joy in her eyes, for, Jack, she always wanted to be a grandma way back, and now, when her wishes are fulfilled, she cannot come," and a tear trickled down the pretty cheek. Jack brushed it away lovingly, saying that just as soon as baby and she were strong enough they would visit dear old Mummy.

"But, Jack, what are we going to name this precious baby? I want a real pretty name for her—"

"Why, your own name, dear, would please me best of all."

"No! no! that isn't pretty—Claire I always did like, and then there is Dorothy and Geraldine."

But neither of them knew that back home in the country, sitting near the window watching her birds, was a dear old lady telling each little bird what she wanted most of all, and at the thought of it her blue eyes sparkled and her heart beat faster.

Some time later when the baby was strong enough, they went out to the little country home, still puzzled what they should call baby. Grandma was consulted, but she just looked at them both, and as she hugged baby close to her there was the same longing in her eyes that the little birds saw one day, yet she said nothing.

While looking through her mother's writing desk one day Mae found a slip of paper, and on it was written over so many times, "Anastasia Mae Edmond." Then it dawned on Mae that Mummy's hand had written that name and was hoping they would name their first baby after Mummy and her own mother.

"It's a bit old-fashioned, Jack, but she has been the most wonderful mother to me, and now that it is my two mothers' names, I shall love the name and baby, too," and Mae Edmond hurried to tell Mummy about it.

A smile and then a few tears, and a hug for little Anastasia Mae was grandma's means of telling them how happy she was.

A Ferry Tale.

A Revere resident on his way home had just crossed the gang plank when he espied a sizeable roll of bills under one of the seats. Stooping and picking it up, he murmured: "Ah, my good ferry has arrived at last!" —Boston Transcript.

EASY TERMS

4000 acres of land that have been withheld from the market because of mineral prospects, have now been placed with us exclusively, for sale in 40 and 80 acre tracts, on terms of $2.00 per acre cash, and small monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annual payment on the balance.

LOCATION

These lands are located 2½ to 9 miles from Brainerd and 1 to 3 miles from Nisswa and Hubert. Some are in the vicinity of Gull Lake—others along the river, and all are fairly close to the Scenic Highway and Black Diamond Trail. They are well located for working in Brainerd and living on the land.

SOIL

The soil ranges from a sandy loam to a clay loam, adapted to clover, potatoes, corn, truck and berries, and prospering settlers near by are demonstrating what can be produced. There is enough timber on some of these tracts to pay for the land—on other tracts the clearing is easy and several acres can soon be broke.

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

You should not overlook this opportunity to become a land owner and be independent of the shop-whistle and the pay-envelope. The prices and the terms upon which these lands can be bought are equal to those offered several years ago by the State and Railroad Company.
